

Snow sculpture at Andebølle

Snow covered Denmark early this year and winter arrived in Andebølle too. Even if snow can be annoying for some people, our students tried to find inspiration from it and to apply what they have learned in Art Class during the semester to create a big snow sculpture.

Creativity is always welcome in Andebølle, so the teachers reacted with enthusiasm to the proposal.

Snow sculpture at Andebolle

With the help of Niaz, Andebølle Art Teacher, Denisa and Eva (from Czech Republic) found a good idea for the "snow sculpture mission": a lion lying down on the ground.

The girls talked about what and how to do it, then they made a sketch on paper, they put on gloves and waterproof clothes and, finally, they started to collect snow all around the school to begin their art work.

Denisa and Eva worked all day and they finally completed the beautiful tridimensional representation of a lion, made using just two big shovels, their hands and a lot of imagination.
